

Scholarly Digital Storytelling Assignment

The final project for this course is a 10-minute digital story drawing on your scholarly research. The following criteria apply to all projects (see Rubrics for additional detail on quality and assessment).

- The content should be solid and engaging;
- The digital story should be clear in its purpose and audience;
- The quality of the digital story should be high (e.g., smooth transitions, quality images/video, appropriate audio level for music/narration);

The following components are required for the final project:

- Project pitch
- Storyboard
- Script
- Release forms (if needed)
- Copyright assessment
- Annotated bibliography
- Rough cut
- Credits
- Scholarly digital story summary
- Final digital story
- Project reflection
- Peer Feedback
